PROFILE

Award-winning broadcast journalist with 16+ years in front of the camera and behind the scenes at Delmarva's most-watched television station. Four-time Emmy Award winner and Three-time Murrow Award honoree known for sharp storytelling, strong editorial judgment, and the ability to connect with audiences across every platform. Brings a rare combination of on-camera presence, production expertise, and newsroom leadership – now looking to bring that broadcast background to a new opportunity in anchoring, communications, or public relations.

EXPERIENCE

Assistant News Director / Morning Anchor

Nov 2012 – Jun 2026

WBOC-TV – Salisbury, MD

- Directed daily newsroom operations as Assistant News Director, overseeing editorial planning, staff development, broadcast production, and digital content strategy.
- Anchored live morning broadcasts five days a week, building strong audience recognition and deep familiarity with the communities, leaders, and stories of the Delmarva Peninsula.
- Reported, shot, and edited news packages independently across a wide range of topics – from breaking news to enterprise features – consistently meeting daily deadlines without sacrificing quality.
- Cultivated a wide network of community and civic contacts across the region, serving as a recognizable and trusted on-air presence for Delmarva audiences for over a decade.
- Produced numerous special broadcasts, most recently Unbridled Tradition: The 100th Chincoteague Pony Penning, a long-form documentary that earned a regional Murrow Award and is currently named a national finalist.

Video Journalist

Oct 2010 – Oct 2012

Time Warner Cable News – Elmira, NY

- Independently managed all aspects of daily television news coverage across a five-county region, handling shooting, writing, and editing without a crew.
- Published daily web content and managed social media distribution, building early experience in multi-platform digital storytelling.
